Ministry audits highlands hospitals

In an effort to put public concerns to rest, an independent audit of the Minden and Haliburton hospitals has been approved by the Ministry of Health.

The ministry appointed a three-member team to conduct this operational audit, which is aimed at resolving current issues surrounding the operation of the two hospital sites.

"There are concerns which continue to be raised by the public on various issues surrounding the Haliburton and Minden Hospitals," said Frank Lussing, Executive Director of St. Joseph's.

Concerns regarding accounting practices and operational efficiencies have been repeatedly raised since the hospital board announced last year that drastic actions may be necessary in order for the board to move toward a balanced budget.

The drastic actions have not materialized. However, demands for full financial documents on the two Haliburton County hospitals have continued through letters to the editor, and to the hospital board.

Mel Johnson, chairman of the hospital Board, said he welcomes the review and hopes the findings will help resolve many contentious issues surrounding the hospitals. "What we really need are some suggestions and insights from an objective body." He said the board's goal is to provide quality care and to operate efficiently.

"We believe that the only way for these concerns to be put to rest is to have an objective, unbiased audit conducted by the ministry," Lussing stated in a press release. "The results will ensure that the hospitals continue to run as efficiently and effectively as possible.

Although the audit is being carried out simultaneously with an operational study of the two hospitals, the hospital board says the two are not connected. The study will address the future of the Minden and Haliburton hospitals. The audit is to be completed within a few weeks and results will be made public.

The terms of reference call for the audit team to look at the decision making process, budgets, operations, revenues, efficiency, human resources and communications.

Many of the concerns expressed by the public involve the hospital board's inability to deliver a clear cost break-down for the Minden and Haliburton Hospitals. The board has proclaimed that these hospitals are operating at a deficit. However, requests for a detailed separation of costs have not been met.

The team will review the method of splitting up the budgets between St. Joseph's in Peterborough and the Minden and Haliburton Hospitals. They will also be making recommendations on the establishment of separate budget reporting mechanisms for the satellite hospitals.

Sewell draft gets thumbs down from rural reeves

Largely applauded in urban Ontario, the Sewell Commission's recommendations for planning reform continue to get failing grades in rural communities.

The Commission on Planning and Development Reform in Ontario held a public forum in Lindsay last Thursday, when it was repeatedly told that some of its draft recommendations are unreasonable in rural communities.

The commission heard presentations from Haliburton County Warden Chris Hodgson, Dysart Deputy Reeve Curry Bishop and Dysart resident Murray Fearrey during the afternoon session at the Lindsay Public Library. While each presentation focused on different issues, they shared a common thread in respect to increased hardships in rural communities.

Restrictive development in rural areas accompanied by the heightened costs related to the need for updated planning documents and the expense of hiring full-time planners were among the main concerns expressed Wednesday. Another common complaint is the commission's recommendation that planning activities be conducted at the county level.

Because of the complex nature of this report, Haliburton County attempted to provide a united presentation to the commission. Municipalities were invited to submit their remarks to Mark Stagg, the county's economic development officer. Stagg collected this information and prepared a report, which was presented Thursday by the warden.

Haliburton County residents chose to live here because of the rural lifestyle, Hodgson said in his presentation. "Privacy, space, lower housing costs, safety, as well as a clean environment are rural qualities valued by residents. This is a lifestyle we wish to protect and promote through planning programs."

The warden said these community goals are at risk if the commission's draft recommendations are adopted. "Council feels strongly that the recommendations of the Draft Report will hinder our ability to achieve a balance of these community goals," he said.

Hodgson said his main concern with planning reform is what he perceives to be heightened provincial controls. Although the theme of these reforms is to create less provincial involvement, Hodgson says this is not the case.

It's a case of "smoke and mirrors", said Hodgson. On the surface the province is stepping away from the planning process. However, he said the commission is proposing the creation of policies and guidelines that municipalities will have to live by.

Fearrey, who is a past reeve of Dysart Township, took a direct attack at the draft report. None of the recommendations made at a previous forum in Haliburton have been adopted in the report, he said. As a result, he said the document discriminates against rural Ontario. Further, he said the recommendations ignore economic realities and allows for development only by wealthy people.

The commission has recommended that planning activities be governed primarily at the county or regional level. Fearrey opposed this recommendation on the basis that it takes the control away from municipalities.

A rural area should have the authority to protect its rural characteristics, said Fearrey. Intense development can spoil these characteristics, he said. Therefore, municipalities should be allowed to maintain some control.

Fearrey also commented on the commission's recommendations in regard to septic systems. He said there is no consideration given to the potential for technological advancements which could heighten the effectiveness of these systems.

The commission has actually backtracked on its original recommendation regarding septic systems.

"A year ago the commission suggested that because so many septic systems pollute the ground water, no more development should be permitted," said commissioner George Penfold. "People in rural areas told us that prohibition was not reasonable. We listened to their suggestions, rejected that proposal and changed our minds, but not everyone is aware of this."

The draft report now suggests that small-scale rural development should proceed with private septics and wells. It also suggests that large-scale rural development should be permitted in areas designated by the municipality and should be serviced by communal water and sewage systems.

As a compromise, the commission is recommending stricter controls be implemented for the use of septic systems. This includes inspections every three years and designated areas for sewage dumping. The commission also recommends that better use be made of communal systems and further research be done by the provincial government into alternatives to septic systems.

> "Privacy, space, lower housing costs, safety, as well as a clean environment are rural qualities valued by residents. This is a lifestyle we wish to protect and promote through planning programs"
> --Warden Hodgson

The commission acknowledges that land use proposals that support rural development are among the most difficult tasks in planning reform. In recognition of the unique characteristics of rural areas, the commission has developed additional criteria for development in these areas. It calls on municipalities to define the rural characteristics they want to protect in order that rural areas do not begin to resemble suburban areas.

"We think it's important to review the cumulative impacts of different development proposals to ensure natural features and functions are protected," said commissioner Toby Vigod.

Long-term adequacy of water supply and sewage treatment — with economic realities in mind — should also be reviewed in the consideration of rural developments.

"Too often development just gets approved without people asking the hard questions up front," she said. "It's not until much later that we find the costs of implementing or fixing bad decisions are really high. We can't afford not to think ahead any more."

Kinmount: the next ghost town?

by Jerry Grozelle

Kinmount in the early 20th century was a much larger and active community before a fire wiped out a lot of the town's businesses.

Kinmount isn't the thriving village it once was. In generations past, the main street of Kinmount was lined on both sides with businesses. There were hotels, livery stables, furniture stores and a variety of other shops providing goods and services to residents of the village and surrounding area.

As the turn of another century approaches, Kinmount is a surviving village. But will it once again be thriving when the bells toll to bring in the year 2000?

Ask that question of the owners of what few businesses are left in Kinmount and some will answer in the negative.

The boom days may be gone but the people who have weathered stormy seas in the past are survivors. And they plan to remain survivors in the face of whatever the economy brings.

Kinmount has survived fires, floods, a depression and the effects of two World Wars. But can it survive government policies and business decisions tailored to the urban society and its preferences?

Guy Scott, who runs the IGA in Kinmount, has seen business decline in recent years. One event that has caused a setback has been the closing of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce subbranch in the village.

"The loss of the bank really hurt," Scott said. "Once the bank closed we went down 10 to 15 per cent and never got it back."

Scott said that the closing of the public school had a noticeable effect but not nearly as much as the loss of the bank.

The liquor store and the post office may be the next casualties of the economy but Scott thinks that those services may be franchised out similar to some of the post offices in other small communities.

"But they won't franchise a bank," Scott laments.

He approached "anything that even resembled a bank" to have an instant teller installed in his store.

"They all laughed at us. But we're not finished with them yet," he said, without elaborating on the plans he has up his sleeve.

"They're all hung up on the world economy," Scott insisted. "They've made some mistakes and they're taking them out on us."

Besides big business, Scott blames the government for basing its decisions on an urban mentality. He says that until we get a government that is responsive to what goes on in the rural communities, "we're going to see a lot of stagnation in small towns."

"It would help if our local councils would stand up for us," Scott added. "But they won't. Without the backing of local councils we're pretty well beat. They're the ones who are stagnated.

"We're not looking for hand-outs. We're just looking for a fair share of services. The same footing as everyone else," he concluded.

Keith Stata is another businessman in Kinmount. He owns the Highland's Cinema. When asked if he sees Kinmount heading for ghost town status he says with a sardonic chuckle: "It's pretty well on its way now."

Stata cites the loss of the school and the bank as two more nails in Kinmount's coffin and, he says: "In all probability the Liquor Store will go and at some point the Post Office will go."

Stata points out that when you take away the reasons for going to a town you deteriorate the town's ability to draw people in to use whatever business services are left.

"Each time you diminish one of those items, you force them (area residents/shoppers) to go somewhere else to do everything and when they do that then you're going to start losing other things," he offered. "You have to have several things to draw people into town. We're always scratching our heads to see what we can do next to make sure they keep coming.

"There is a major problem and it's eroding away," he added.

"Once they moved the bank out that was the real big problem," Stata explained. "If you've got to go (somewhere else) to do your banking, then, what the hell, you might as well just do everything while you're there."

In Stata's opinion, the problem is compounded by the recent flood plain study that was released.

"The town is now on a flood plain, if they get this study through, theoretically, there'll be absolutely nothing you'll be able to do anywhere there."

Speakers shine at ASES contest

The eight students chosen to participate in the Archie Stouffer Elementary School speak-off provided judges with a very difficult task in choosing the winners. The students in the junior and intermediate divisions presented their speeches with calm enthusiasm. The topics were entertaining and well researched.

The contestants were:

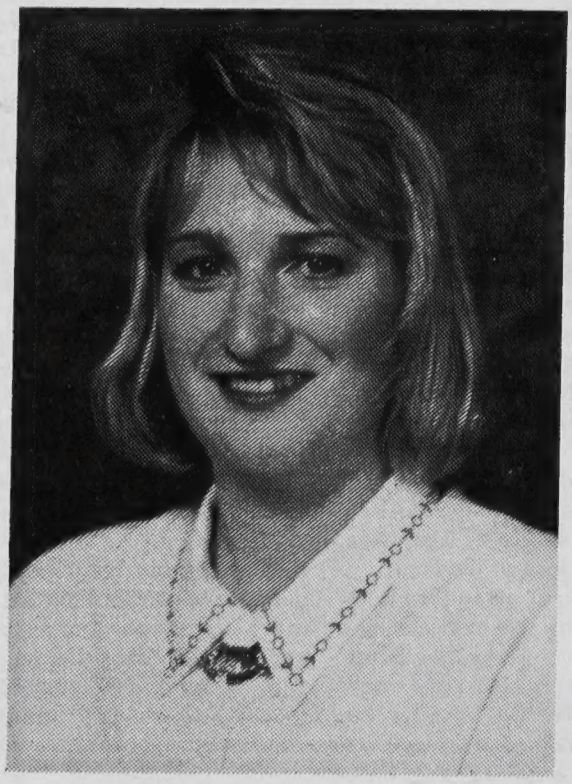
(front) Ryan Dawson, grade 6, "My Dresser"; Shawna Ray, grade 4, "My Broken Arm"; Jennifer Wales, grade 6, "Being a Tweenager"; John Heffer, grade 5, "How Kids Can Help the Environment"

(back) Ruth Rice, Legion Youth Education Chairperson; Luke Lester, grade 7, "Speeches"; Sarah Ladurantaye, grade 8, "My Olympic Dream"; Jennifer Orpana, grade 7, "The Letter Z", and Alan Rice representing the legion.

The contest was sponsored by the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 636.

"It wasn't until I experienced a loss in my own family that I finally realized the importance of a funeral service."

A candid talk about funeral service with Kirsten L. Monk.



Kirsten L. Monk

"Although I grew up in the funeral service profession, I'll admit I wasn't involved much with the family business. I guess like many young people, I had other views on what was important.

"That all changed when a member of our extended family experienced a traumatic death. It was a very emotional time, but I think it finally made me realize why funeral service is so important.

"Not only is a funeral a chance to honor a life well lived, but it seems to pull families together like no other way I have seen. It gives each family member a special time to reflect, cry, laugh, and gain strength from one another.

"Occasionally we have families who think a traditional funeral may be too hard or unnecessary. But it's actually one of the healthiest ways of coming to grips with the loss of a loved one. Without it, the reality of death may not sink in until months or years later.

"We feel it's important for families to understand the value of a funeral. We know this because we've experienced losses too."

Kinmount in a battle to survive more optimistic. He refuses to believe that Kinmount is bound for ghost-town status.

"I think we'll exist," Dettman said. "The big thing is we still have the tourist trade."

Dettman says he keeps his store open until at least 8 p.m. during the week in the winter and until 9 p.m. on weekends to better serve his customers and in the summer, the hours are extended to 10 p.m.

"I have to look at the positive side," Dettman said. "Otherwise, I'd be closing up too."

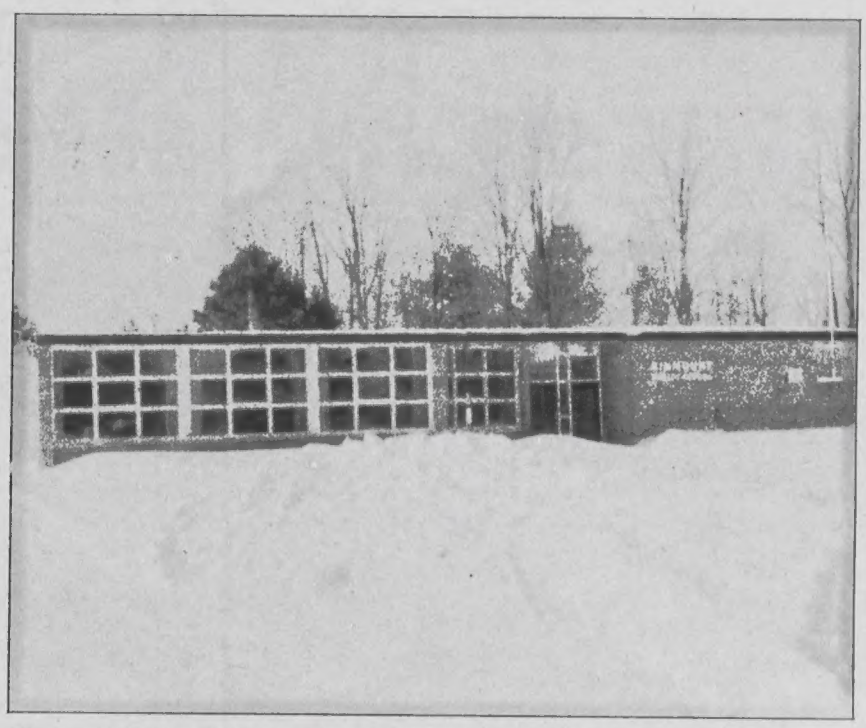
Emphasizing the good points, Dettman said: "We've got a good theatre, a good IGA store and two or three restaurants."

As far as the closing of the bank is concerned, Dettman isn't too concerned.

"The bank was only open part time anyway," he said, adding, "we'll survive."

Bill Scott, MP for Victoria-Haliburton and life-ling resident of Kinmount, is maintaining a positive outlook. He says he's not prepared to "discard the town yet."

"A lot of people would pick a quiet place like Kinmount (to live). There are still some virtues in Kinmount," he said. "I have to agree we're living in a changing world. But there'll be people staying around yet."



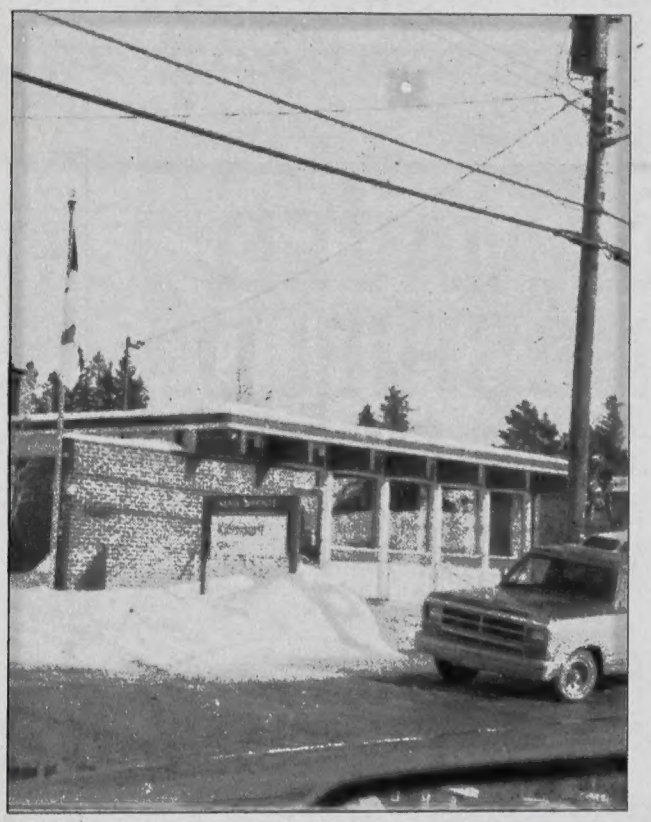
Kinmount Public School no longer open to stimulate children's minds.

Scott suggested that a little help from the provincial and federal governments would go a long way toward keeping places like Kinmount from becoming stagnant. He said that a senior citizens' residence in Kinmount would be a step in the right direction. To that end, he has gone so far as to offer some land on which to build such a facility free of charge.

"I've seen a lot of these senior citizens homes and apartments go up in rural parts of Ontario," he said.

There have been some rumours going around that someone has plans to develop some low rental housing in Kinmount. Scott said that if a project like that were to come to fruition, "it would be a good start."

He stressed that people have to remain optimistic. "You have to be a booster, not a knocker," he stated optomistically.



With the federal government cutting rural post offices across Canada how longs will Kinmount's office survive?

Haliburton Forest gets boost

by Andy Holloway

Look out Haliburton Forest beavers, here comes Ducks Unlimited Canada.

An agreement will be signed today (March 8) between Haliburton Forest and Wild Life Reserve and Ducks Unlimited Canada (DUC) which will work with the beavers towards improving their habitat for a wider variety of wildlife.

The $100,000, 15-year beaver pond management project is one of several currently being implemented across southern and central Ontario by DUC, but it is the first of this magnitude to be done on privately owned land.

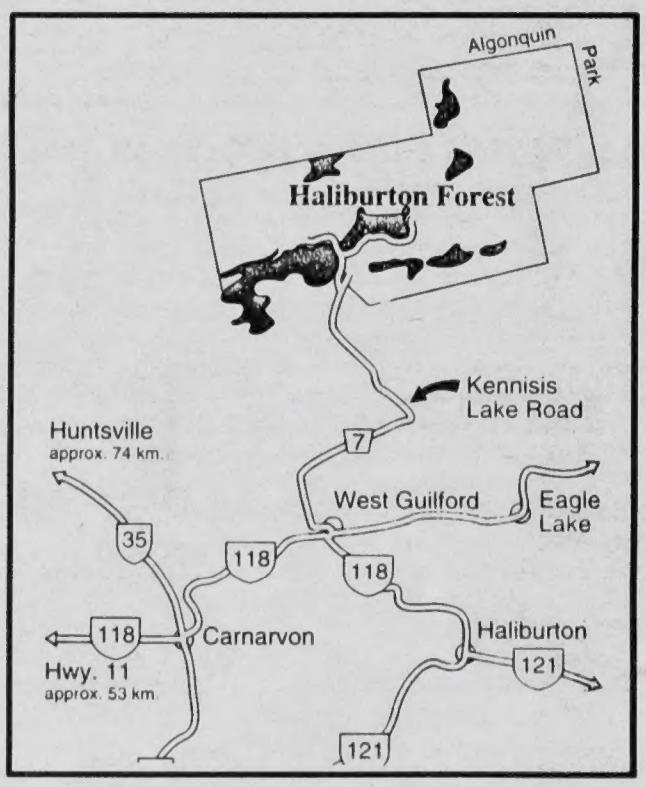
The project is based on the premise that healthy plots of poplar as food for beavers will lead to productive ponds for other wetland wildlife as well. "Present day fire suppression forestry practices often select against poplar around wetlands to the detriment of the beaver pond habitat on which so many other species depend," said Ted Gadawski, a provincial biologist for DUC.

The project will manage large areas of the forest that previously were left on their own.

"It finally includes a large portion of Haliburton Forest that was so far not under any management or even under consideration This means close to 300 wetland areas, which are of course a very important part of our landscape, are included," said Dr. Peter Schleifenbaum of Haliburton Forest.

Activities under the agreement will focus on the restoration of abandoned ponds by establishing poplar food plots, regenerating wetland vegetation, enhancing existing ponds by installing simple water control pipes and by adding nesting structures for the beavers that blend in with the natural sites.

"With Ducks Unlimited, as the name implies, their prime concern is waterfowl, but it is not limited to waterfowl," says Schleifenbaum.



"Basically their management teams will improve habitat for all kinds of wildlife, game and non-game species, predatory birds, deer, moose, beaver, mink - everything that basically is around."

Haliburton Forest, which comprises about 50,000 acres of forest, hundreds of lakes and rivers and a vast network of streams and creeks, is located at the north-eastern edge of Haliburton County and borders Algonquin Park. It is one of the largest privately owned forests in Ontario.

Investigation continues in fire victim's death

Police are still uncertain of why Herbert Woodburn was in his neighbour's cottage on Trapper's Trail when it burned on February 21.

However, they have determined that the 26-year-old man died of smoke inhalation.

Sergeant Steve Adam discounted the rumours that have been circulating in regard to this death. Although he said the investigation is continuing, so far there are no signs of foul play. He said the body was found in the ashes and the head was intact. Woodburn was identified by dental records.

The investigation is continuing into the cause of this fire. Samples taken at the scene have been sent to the forensic sciences lab to determine if any accelerants were used.

Audit will put questions to rest

Questions surrounding the accuracy of the proclaimed deficits resulting from the operation of Haliburton County's two hospitals will finally be answered through the Ministry of Health's independent audit of these institutions.

Over a year ago the St. Joseph's Hospital board generated considerable local concern when it announced that drastic measures must be taken to reduce the costs generated by the Minden and Haliburton Hospitals. The board said these hospitals were putting a strain on the limited finances by operating with an annual deficit of almost $150,000.

Thanks to ministry intervention, the "drastic measures" have not materialized. However, questions raised about the accuracy of this deficit have not yet been answered to the satisfaction of many Highlands residents.

The board has been asked repeatedly for a detailed accounting of how it arrived at the deficit figure. However, this information has not been made available.

Minden resident Sonya Holliday-Rhodes summed up her concerns in a letter last October. "Because St. Joseph's is funded in block by the Ministry of Health for the three hospitals and their operating funds are allocated by St. Joseph's to the Minden and Haliburton Hospitals, and because St. Joseph's does the accounting for the county hospitals, we are leaving ourselves totally entrusted to their fairness and accuracy." She said Minden needs the involvement of a local accountant to ensure that these hospitals receive adequate funding and that the deficit is accurately depicted.

The question of accounting was raised again three weeks ago when the consultant who is looking into the future role of the Minden Hospital was asked if he knows how much it costs to keep the hospital running. Terry McBurney's reply was not surprising: "I think we've got a fair idea, but there are still a couple of missing links."

The inference of these questions is whether the Minden Hospital is being made a scapegoat for the financial troubles of St. Joseph's.

Clearly, this information is vital to the study, which is already near completion. Without an accurate financial picture, any recommendations for cost-cutting measures cannot be substantiated. Further, this information is essential if any consideration is to be given to the possibility of transferring the governance of the county hospitals to a local board.

While we trust the hospital board has made every effort to present accurate figures, questions such as these will not go away on their own. For this reason, we welcome the ministry's audit of the Minden and Haliburton hospitals.

Know machine and terrain says injured snowmobiler

Editor:

I have been coming to Haliburton for vacations and other occasions for the past 48 years, and with my wife and family since our marriage and our daughter and sons' births.

On Thursday afternoon (January 28) while my son Glenn and I were up at Matabanick on Boshkung Lake for a few days of fishing with the Archers, I was injured in a snowmobile accident in which I hit a stump dead on after becoming airborne off a mogul. The next thing I knew I was lying on my back screaming in intense pain.

The first Stanhope volunteer firefighter was on the scene in about two minutes and two or three more in about five minutes. I can not praise the job that these guys did enough. As they assessed my condition they were thorough, calm, gentle and spoke in a relaxed tone when asking me questions. As a result I started to become more relaxed, having the feeling that I was in very capable hands. Thanks again guys, I can never thank you enough. When I was in pain it was nice to know that you were there.

The Minden-Haliburton Ambulance Service was on the scene in less than 15 minutes. I wish to thank the two ambulance attendants for the efficient way they got me ready to move after assessing the situation with the volunteer firefighters. That was my first ride in an ambulance. The ride was amazingly quiet and smooth and in no time we were at the Minden Hospital and I was wheeled into the emergency room where a nurse seemed to appear from nowhere. The ambulance attendants came in and saw me a couple times while I was waiting for the doctor to come and stitch me up. Thanks again guys, I won't forget you and I hope people in the area really realize how critically important this service is.

I would also like to thank Dr. Asbell for stitching me up at the hospital and Dr. Holliday-Rhodes for fitting me into a

Time for understanding

Editor:

I have attended three International Women's Day dinners in Haliburton County. This annual dinner is a wonderful community builder as busy women from all walks of life and their children pause for a few hours of sharing and celebration.

The goal is to honour women from the past, present and future. Catherine Denholme told her exciting story and left us with the gift of laughter. Caroline Bishop told of strength in the doing and Eliza O'Neal, a student, spoke of dreams of the young for a better world for all.

This year we will have book displays from libraries and posters from the school will decorate the room. Music and fabulous food make for a fun evening.

As other single gender groups meet regularly in our community I am not sure why this gathering has caused such press coverage. Two other activities regarding women's issues, Take Back the Night (which men have attended since it began) and the Memorial Service to mark the deaths from the Montreal Massacre are both supported by men in our community.

In a world where discrepancies are tearing countries, neighbors and families apart I think it would be wise for us all to go the next step and try to understand a little harder.

busy schedule the following evening to check my legs and stitches to make sure there were no problems.

I would like to say two things about snowmobiles and equipment. My accident was caused by unfamiliarity with the machine I was on. Snowmobiles are a fantastic recreational vehicle and the helmets are life savers. A suggestion for you youngsters, or oldies like me, get used to the machine you're on out on the open ice first and, more importantly, get used to the helmet. With no feeling due to the wind blowing in your face and the muffled sound of the engine your awareness to reality is lessened. All I can say is "Thank God" for the helmet I was wearing or I might have been scrambled eggs lying in some hospital.

Thanks once again to everyone who gave a helping hand to a guy in pain. To Cliff Archer and all the rest of you that were so marvelous, all I can say is, "God, it's great to be family."

Constricting corset making a comeback?

Black 'n White
by Arthur Black

It is one of the enduring ironies of the late 20th century that while perhaps you and certainly I and definitely Roseanne Barr-Arnold strive desperately to lose a few pounds, most of the people in the world are scrambling just as desperately to gain a couple.

The grim spectre of starvation stalks the Third World, but here in Fat Cat Central we swirl our wine spritzers and nibble on carrot sticks while we moan about how tough it is to take off weight.

There are more ways to reduce than there are calories in a banana split. Diets - Pritikin, Atkins, Beverley Hills, Loma Linda, Grapefruit and Drinking man's, to name a handful.

And then there's exercise - anything from bare-knuckle mountaineering to low-impact aerobics. The more crazed among the Gravitationally Challenged resort to surgery - lyposuction to Hoover away those rolls of fat; not to mention "tummy tucks" which short-circuit the alimentary canal. Some have their jawbones wired shut to prevent the intake of solids.

Simple, medically supervised fasting would do the trick for most of us, except that's a little too much like ... well, the sort of thing that goes on in places like Somalia, Ethiopia and Bangladesh.

At the risk of being dismissed as just another Phoney Baloney Svelteness Guru I'd like to tell you about a way to look thinner that works faster than any diet plan or exercise regime you ever heard of.

What's more, it's a method with a proven track record. Our overweight ancestors were using this trick to look slim centuries ago.

It's called the corset.

The corset actually dates back to at least the early 16th century - and the first ones were probably worn for therapeutic reasons, rather than vanity. It didn't take long however, for people to realize that the average human body looked a lot trimmer when it was lashed into a straightjacket of whalebones and cloth than it did when it was allowed to droop and bulge naturally.

By the late 17th and 18th century just about everybody in England who could afford a corset was sitting or standing unusually erect and breathing in shallow little gasps. The corset was the chosen instrument of torture for all who would be chic.

The word "torture" is no exaggeration. Girls as young as 13 were trussed up in corsets in order that their figures could be "improved". And the corsets got tighter and tighter. During the 1700s fashionable corsets literally drove the female waistline down. Not to mention "in". Some girls had their waistlines reduced by a mind-boggling eight inches.

As time went on, common sense seemed to retreat. The 1800s saw the dawn of the "hourglass" figure. The 18-inch waist became the ideal. Ladies of fashion even went as far as having their lower ribs surgically removed to accommodate a snugger corset and a wispier waist.

The ultimate corset absurdity arrived with the not-so Gay '90s and a revolutionary corset engineered with a complexity worthy of Michealangelo.

Or perhaps the Marquis de Sade. This construction featured a minuscule waist and a rigid front, so that the woman's breasts were pushed forward while her hips were forced to the rear.

If X-rays had been available they would have revealed an anatomical obscenity - women's spines torqued and twisted until they looked like large capital "S's" - all in the name of fashion.

The popularity of corsets died out, thank heaven, about 1910 and they haven't made a serious fashion threat since.

Could they make a comeback? Hey, in a society that endorses silicone breast implants, face lifts and stiletto high heels, anything is possible, I suppose ... but a garment as stupid and health-threatening as the corset?

Personally, I wouldn't hold my breath.

MTO maintenance fee increase upsets Halls Lake residents

Editor:

This is addressed to all private road sign owners.

I live off highway 35 at Halls Lake on a private road, Glenverdean Lane. Two years ago a neighbour suggested that for fire and emergency purposes we put a sign up naming our road. All the people on our road agreed that a sign would be very helpful especially in emergency situations.

The sign originally cost $55 to install plus there is an annual $15 maintenance fee.

We are not quite sure yet what this maintenance is. This year the Ministry of Transportation office sent us a bill for a $100 maintenance fee. This is an outrageous increase. We, the people of Glenverdean Lane, are very confused and very aggravated by this.

Last summer a woman on our road had a heart attack. We believe that our sign at the highway saved valuable time for the emergency team.

Anyone who is facing these same problems, please write and express your concern to: Mr. Art Galloway, Head of Administration, 2nd Floor, West Building, 1201 Wilson Ave., Downsview, Ontario, M3N 1J8.

A second copy of the letter should also be sent to our MPP, Dennis Drainville.

Maybe if we all work together and voice our opinions we can stop this nonsense.

Consultants not needed to study county staff

Editor:

Contrary to your editorial saying we need "consultants" to review the county's staffing structure (February 15), I feel that $37,500 plus expenses is too much to ask of our taxpayers at the present time.

Correction

In the For Your Service column last week we inadvertently attributed Fish and Chip night to the Ladies Auxiliary when in fact branch members are responsible. We also mispriced the Corned Beef and Cabbage St. Patrick's Party on March 20. The price should have read $10 per person. The Times regrets the errors.

Baseball sign up

Westside's Gary Caspchuck tries to head off a Home Hardware attacker in men's hockey action last Monday night. Westside lost 4-2.

Westside is first playoff casualty

Comeback win by Home Hardware puts Westside out of contention

Goalie Brett Foster came within a minute of leading Westside to the biggest upset of this year's Minden men's hockey playoffs, but Home Hardware popped in two late power-play goals and won 4-2.

Hartwick did the expected and knocked off The Times 4-0, but Sid Stamp provided the thrill of the night by beating regular season leaders KDD 4-2.

Westside, still without a point after three playoff games, was knocked out of contention for the finals with the loss, but did not give up without a good fight. Foster was outstanding in net for his side, but Home Hardware's relentless pressure enabled it to rebound from an early 2-0 deficit and score four straight times.

With Westside up by two on the strength of goals by Craig and Steve Crowe (Lorne Burgess assisting on both goals) Home Hardware began its comeback when Harold Cowen stuffed one home behind Foster. Despite some excellent chances by both sides there was no other scoring in the period as both Foster and Andrew Burke made some outstanding saves.

Things were still looking good for Westside midway through the second period, particularly when Home Hardware had an apparent goal wiped out by an interference penalty to John Fedeski. Despite being shorthanded, Tim Hunter knocked in a beautiful set-up from Jeff Howe to finally give Home Hardware a tie game.

From there on in it was all downhill for Westside. With less than two minutes left Howe gave Home Hardware its first lead of the game. The tally was a power-play goal and was assisted by Ted Vasey and Doug Rae. Ron May added Home Hardware's fourth goal on another power-play a minute later to ice the game.

Howe, May and Vasey each scored two points for Home Hardware.

In the night's second match-up Hartwick's goalie Paul Humber blanked The Times 4-0 to give his team a share of first place in the opening round

Pee Wee Bs consolation champs in Sunderland

After three consecutive overtime games the Minden Monarchs Pee Wee B team finally won the consolation championship in a Sunderland tournament on February 20.

A hat trick by George Godfrey led the Monarchs to a 3-2 victory over Woodville in the consolation final. Godfrey scored once in each of the first, third and overtime periods and was named the game's Most valuable player (MVP) for Minden.

Assisting on Godfrey's second goal were Matthew Hamilton and Jason Kasepchuk while Philip Daniels received an assist on the game's decisive goal. The first goal was unassisted.

The game was the third overtime match in a row for the Monarchs who played all three games in one day. In their first match-up against the Sutton Kings the Monarchs lost 3-2 and were relegated to the consolation round. Godfrey and Kasepchuk scored the Monarchs' goals, but the Kings scored at the 4:17 mark of overtime to win the game. Godfrey was later named the game's MVP.

In their first consolation round game the Monarchs beat the Sutton Wings 2-1 when Jamie Henderson scored in overtime. Henderson, who was named the game's MVP, was assisted by Kasepchuk and Jason Horsley. The Monarchs' first goal was scored in the second period by Kasepchuk with assists going to Daniels and Godfrey. The win put the Monarchs into the consolation final against Woodville.

Gary Harrison scored two first period goals for Hartwick to give them enough of a lead to win the game. In the second period, Sean Allore and Dave Pettes added goals for Hartwick to finish the scoring. Pettes also added an assist to keep a share of first place in the scoring race with seven points so far.

Other multiple point scorers for Hartwick included Paul Walker and Ben Manuge each with two assists.

The loss was The Times' second in a row after an opening game win against Westside. Another loss will knock The Times out of contention for the finals.

Hartwick's second win in a row put it at the top of the standings with five points along with Sid Stamp who continued to impress with a sound 4-2 victory over KDD.

Regular season winners KDD are now in danger of being eliminated from the finals tonight when it plays Hartwick in the night's big match-up.

Sid Stamp, undefeated in three playoff games, has turned on the power at the right time after struggling during the regular season.

Two first period goals by Brian Shaw, sandwiched around one by Sid McKeigan, gave the Stampers a 3-0 lead entering the final period. Barry Walker assisted on two of those goals while Dave Hartwick and Scott Hamilton added singles.

Hamilton scored the Stamper's fourth goal in the second period to counteract two goals by KDD's Ivan Ingram. Assisting on Hamilton's goal were McKeigan and Tom Miscio.

Scott Danilko, Jay Horsley, Jeff Stamp and Andy McKenzie received assists on Ingram's goals.

Novice Bs run into tough luck

It was a tough week for the Minden Monarchs Ontario Hydro Novice Bs as they lost four games, but showed a great deal of hustle and effort in each.

On February 29 the Monarchs played and lost two games against the Haliburton Huskies, but only by a combined score of 3-0. In the first game, Lance Aggett had two breakaways, but could not break the goose egg and neither could his teammates despite a number of chances. Down 1-0 late in the game the Monarchs pulled their goalie but this too failed to result in a goal. The Huskies' goal was scored by Matt Marlin.

The second game was similar to the first except the Huskies managed to score two goals. Darren Kirkpatrick put the Huskies up 1-0 midway through the game on a breakaway and then scored the final goal into an empty net for a 2-0 win. Andrew Sachs received the shut-outs in both games.

Last Tuesday the Bobcaygeon Cougars came to Minden and won 2-1 over the hard-luck Monarchs.

The Cougars jumped out to an early 1-0 lead, but the Monarchs tied it up when Andy Kinsman capitalized on a smooth set-up from Nicholas Mitchell. Later, the Cougars notched one more to end the scoring.

The Monarchs could not buy a goal in either of the three games, but the effort was there and they never gave up. Phillip Neville made a number of great saves to keep his side in all three games.

Coach Joe said of his players, "I can not ask any more from them."

On a previous trip to Bobcaygeon the Monarchs lost 5-1. Colin Vaters scored the lone Monarchs goal with an assist going to Johnathan Horsley.

Woodville comes to town to play the Monarchs March 13 at 11 a.m.

Howling success

Novice C Monarchs end year with a big bang

The Minden Monarchs Heat Line Novice Cs got two goals in the first 51 seconds on their way to an 8-0 blanking of Beaverton on February 14.

Kevin Walker scored twice in the opening minute to give the Monarchs an early 2-0 lead. Brent Hiese received assists on both goals and added a third when he passed the puck to Derek Barnett who made no mistake giving the Monarchs a three goal lead.

The onslaught continued in the second period when Benji Saunders scored two goals assisted by Evan Kernohan, Ryan Clark and Matthew Young. Walker completed a hat trick by scoring the game's sixth goal with an assist from Barnett.

Kernohan and Barnett scored in the third period to complete the blitz, Barry Dunn and Matt Mattsson also added an assist on the plays.

The following Saturday the Monarchs played their final game of the season in Cannington to face the Kings and came out on top of a 4-3 score.

Expectations were high for a good game in this one, but it turned out to be the most exciting game of the season. Evan Kernohan put the first marker on the scoreboard with assists from Benji Saunders and Ryan Clark. Derek Barnett then scored with assists going to Kevin Walker and Brent Hiese to give the Monarchs a 2-0 lead.

However, seconds before the end of the first period the Kings closed to within one with a late goal.

The Kings' momentum carried over into the second period and they tied it up early. Hiese gave the Monarchs the lead again just seconds later with an assist from Barnett

The Kings continued to press and put a lot of pressure on the Monarchs defence and their goalie Jeremy Davis. They were equal to the task until the Kings tied it up with just under six minutes left in the game.

Both teams were pumped up to win, particularly the Monarchs who had never beaten the Kings before.

With just 1:21 left Evan Kernohan won a face-off in the neutral zone and went all the way to score the winning goal.

There were a lot of assists credited in the Monarchs' final two games indicating that the boys' passing skills have improved. Coach Jim Bleakley, assistant coach Lorne Hiese and managers Derek Barnett and Ralph Bleakley should be credited for their efforts with the boys' improved skills and position play.

Bantam Monarchs' season finally ends

The Minden Monarchs Bantams' good playoff run ended on February 25 when they lost 5-1 in Manvers and lost the series three games to one.

However, prior to their loss to Manvers the Monarchs had a great season and destroyed Ops in the first round of theplayoffs.

On January 30, Ops' season came to an end in Minden when they lost their third game of the first round to the Monarchs by a score of 10-3.

Minden goal scorers were as follows: Jeff Wray from Chris Eskelin, Dennis Woods from Dave Raback and Rob Reid, Eskelin from Wray and Woods, Marty Dettman from Raback, Wray from Aaron Belton, Eskelin from Tom Bagshaw, Bagshaw from Woods, Wray from Bagshaw and Eskelin, Raback from Woods and Wray assisted by Dettman.

After a two week layoff, Minden travelled to Manvers to open another best-of-five series. Manvers is a fast skating and good passing team and they scored two third period goals to beat the Monarchs 3-2.

Manvers scored the first goal at 4:49 of the first period after Justin Rowden made a number of excellent saves. That goal stood up until late in the second period when the Monarchs scored two goals in just over a minute to take the lead.

Chris Eskelin fired one in at 1:57 after taking a pass from Dave Raback. Just 73 seconds later Jeff Wray scored another Monarchs' goal with an assist from Paul Murray.

Manvers won the second game of the series 7-6 on February 20 in Minden.

Even though Manvers scored seven goals, Andrew Nesbitt played an excellent game in the Monarchs' net. The game was Nesbitt's first full game in net and he did a great job. The defence corps of Daniel Howell, Rob Reid, Chris Eskelin and Benji Crego also came through and played very well when needed.

The scoring for Minden in this game was as follows: Tom Bagshaw unassisted; Jeff Wray from Dennis Woods and Aaron Belton; Belton assisted by Benji Crego and Daniel Howell; Marty Dettman from Rob Reid and Bagshaw; Jeff Wray completed a hat trick with two more goals with assists coming from Dettman, Curtis Fielding and Howell with two.

With their backs against the wall, the Monarchs rebounded the next day with a solid 3-1 win.

The game was fast-paced and the shots came at Justin Rowden fast and furious, but he was up to the challenge and played an outstanding game.

After a scoreless first period Rob Reid scored with an assist to Daniel Howell early in the second period. With just one second left in the period Manvers tied the game.

However, the Monarchs came out determined to win in the third and scored twice. Aaron Belton scored with just 2:29 left in the game to give the Monarchs the lead again. Jeff Wray assisted on the game-winning goal and then scored the game's final goal into an empty net with just one second left on the clock.

Back in Manvers on February 25, the Monarch's season came to a close as they lost 5-1.

The lone goal for the Monarchs was scored by Tom Bagshaw. Marty Dettman played an excellent game for the Monarchs.

Despite the disappointing finish the Monarchs had a enjoyable year which could not have been done without the time and effort of the coaching staff, Tim Woods, Ross Wray, Al Eskelin and John Dettman. As well, the parents should be thanked for coming out to the games and cheering their team on.

Boys' curling team takes second

The Haliburton Highlands boys' curling team gave it a good run, but finished second in their division at the Kawartha tournament two weekends ago.

The team lost their opening game 9-7 to Norwood to start the tournament on the wrong note. However, they rebounded back to beat St. Peter's 6-5 to even up their record. In their last game Haliburton lost 9-6 to Crestwood.

Only the top team from each division advanced to the next level so Haliburton was knocked out after a fairly successful season. The team did well at the Kawartha West to advance to Kawartha finals.

Todd not hoarse in speaking competition

What do bus rides, television, school and Terry Fox have in common? Absolutely nothing, except that they were all topics in this year's grade nine and ten public speaking competition.

The grade nine competition, which took place on Monday, February 22, featured numerous talented speakers. The winners of this year's competition were as follows.

Brock Glendenning placed third with his speech on "Being the Middle Child". Bronwen Winsley placed second. She spoke about "The Long Bus Ride Home". The winner of the competition, and a very talented speaker, was Todd Hoare who spoke on "Television's Impact On Society".

The grade ten public speaking competition took place on Wednesday, February 24. The participants who took the top three places in this contest were: in third place, Cara Donnery who spoke about "The Top Ten Things to Do In Haliburton". Coming in second with her speech about Terry Fox was Hayley Lynch, and a young lady who is no stranger to public speaking competitions and who won at the Legion last year, Sarah Levis, came in first. Her speech this year was about "Having Your Mother As A Teacher In Your School".

These six speakers also competed in the Legion finals last Tuesday. The winners at the Legion were: Bronwen Winsley, third; Sarah Levis, second; and Todd Hoare, first.

We congratulate all of the speakers and wish Todd the best of luck when he goes on to Bobcaygeon on Sunday.

The winners

Accomplished duo wins ovation

by Susan Wilson

Asking duo pianists Lark Popov and George Vona to perform on a seven-foot grand piano is rather like asking Scott Goodyear to drive the Indy 500 in a Chevette. But the husband-and-wife team are as accomplished a pair of professionals as you could hope to hear and, in their concert a week ago Sunday night in the second concert of the Haliburton Highlands Concert Series 13th season, they were able to get the most anyone could out of an instrument that size. They brought an outstanding level of musicianship to their performance at the Haliburton Legion and, as a result, they brought the audience to its feet.

Canadian-born and currently Connecticut-based, Popov and Vona chose an evening of works for piano-four-hands — two pianists at one instrument. Their program included an introductory theme-and-variations by Mendelssohn, a masterpiece of symphonic proportions by Mozart (his Sonata in F major, K. 497), the obligatory contribution from a Canadian composer, and a couple of Ravel's greatest hits (The Mother Goose Suite and Rhapsodie Espagnole).

Before each work, Vona provided the audience with a brief, useful, and pleasant guided tour of the music, helping them understand the context of the work and what to listen for.

As he pointed out in his opening remarks, piano-four-hands was a common form of home entertainment in the 19th and early 20th centuries. It was not only the absence of radio and television that led people to become accomplished at making music for themselves; symphony orchestras and opera companies were not as numerous and frequently a transcription was the only way people could hear music written for these forces.

In addition, every front parlour worthy of the name had a piano and piano-four-hands became an acceptable way for sweethearts to sit close together among company. (Not for nothing was the Victorian piano repertoire replete with four-hand music that involved a great deal of crossing of hands by the partners.)

Throughout their performance, Popov and Vona were by turns vigorous, introspective, virtuosic, gentle — at every moment, up to the particular demands of the music, whether it was the haunting, seamless haze of the first movement of Mother Goose or the sprightly closing rondo of the Mozart Sonata.

Popov brought all the vigour necessary to the lower register of the piano throughout the evening. It was in her part particularly that the size of the piano so frequently felt claustrophobic, not really up to the enormity and power of the full-blown four-hand sound. This was especially notable in the closing movement of the Mozart where, in addition, the contrapuntal complexity of the inner parts was muddied.

Ann Southam's Four in Hand, written in 1981, suffered from the same problem. But in this case it mattered less, as this slightly programmatic work, though virtuosic and dramatic, is not an especially memorable composition in the first place.

Popov and Vona received a standing ovation for their piano performance at the Haliburton Legion a week ago.

In response to the enthusiasm of the audience, Popov and Vona offered a brief encore. They chose a four-hand arrangement of one of Chopin's most familiar waltzes and concluded the evening on a high note of charm and simplicity — two of the staple characteristics of the best of the literature for piano-four-hands.

The final concert of the 1992/93 Haliburton Highlands Concert Series will take place on Sunday, March 28, at 7:30 p.m. at the Haliburton Legion. It will feature Fourwest — a chamber ensemble of soprano, flute, cello, and piano. Tickets are available at the door.

Board gets five-year computer plan proposal

New plan calls for board to spend over $850,000 to upgrade computers

A proposed five year plan calls for the Haliburton school board to purchase over $850,000 of computer equipment to bring the county's students up to speed.

The plan, titled The Implementation of Computers Across the Curriculum, also calls for the board to spend an additional $69,000 per year to coordinate, install and repair the computers.

Trustees received the proposal at last Tuesday's regular board meeting, but the proposal has been referred to the education committee for study and recommendations.

Three weeks ago at the first budget meeting of the year, school board members expressed concern that area students were not receiving the same amount of computer education that other schools in the province were providing. Those residents who attended the first budget meeting asked trustees not to cut any computer initiatives or programs to allow the county's students to compete with others.

"I don't think we're way behind, but we are behind," said superintendent of education Dale Robinson.

Robinson said surveys of the county's graduated students show they are not getting the computer education that other students are in the province. The board should, if it were in a better financial condition, be spending twice as much as it does now on computers added Robinson.

One of the problems is that the board purchased ICON computers eight years ago because the education ministry was offering grants and free software to do so. However, that ICON equipment is now out of date and does not have the same capabilities as personal computers or word processors which provide the types of skills needed in business and higher education levels.

However, to find over $900,000 in the budget this year or in the coming years will be an extremely difficult task for trustees.

Some of the key objectives the program hopes to achieve are the fluent use of a computer keyboard by the end of grade five, using a word processor by the end of grade 12 as well as being able to manipulate and organize information using data processing.

This would be accomplished by replacing most of the board's present computers and buying additional computers so that there is a ratio of one computer for every 10 students.

The proposal also recommends that every school develop an electronic card catalogue for their libraries and that modems be installed to allow for electronic communications with data banks and other schools.

Eight staff members from various schools across the county and the board of education office have been working on the proposal since October, 1992.

Guides and Scouts watch as Brendan Berube attempts to contact others in the Scouting movemnt with his ham radio. The radio contact was part of many activities marking "Thinking Day" in Minden February 28.

Scouts, Guides celebrate birth of their founders

Minden Scouts and Guides marked the birthdays of their founders, Lord and Lady Baden Powell last week with a special service at St. Paul's Anglican church. The two branches of the Scouting movement celebrated "Thinking Day" with a joint worship service led by Barb Trocewicz.

Following the service the young people, along with their leaders and parents returned to the community centre for a luncheon and a time of fellowship. A number of displays had been set up showing the activities of the various groups, their crafts, books and posters.

One of the highlights of the day was an opportunity to participate in the Guides on the Airwaves program. Ham radio operators across Canada demonstrated their radio equipment and attempted to exchange greetings with Guides in other parts of the country.

Unfortunately, the group was unable to talk with other Guides, however they did listen in on a couple of other stations participating in the program.

The day provided an excellent opportunity for the groups within the Scouting and Guiding movements to become aware of each others' activities.

Five Counties Children's Centre annual canvassing to begin soon

The Five Counties Children's Centre Foundation Board of Trustees announced that Suzette White will chair the 1993 door to door canvass to be held from June 1 to June 13.

The 1992 canvass raised $94,000 in the counties of Haliburton, North Hastings, Northumberland, Peterborough and Victoria. The continued success of the campaign is attributed to the generosity and dedication of many local individuals, service clubs and companies within the five counties.

The centre is an outpatient treatment centre which provides therapy and support services to children who have physical handicaps, communication disorders and mild motor impairments.

Lost a pet? Check potholes

Rantin' n' Ravin'

by Andy Holloway

The signs of spring have sprung.

To be sure, there will be at least one more snowstorm, maybe even two or three, and cold snaps-a-plenty. Nevertheless, the eternal optimist will have recently found things to be pleased about.

Two weeks ago a slew of pontoon boats was seen being hauled north along Highway 35. The smell of soggy vegetation and left-over doggy doo is filling the air with its oddly pleasant odour. Those black things in town covered in dirt are actually roads and are good for walking on or driving a car over. And yes, that was the sun burning brightly early last week causing birds to sing and old hearts to melt.

On the other hand there are the dastardly signs of spring. You know, things like potholes the size of small canyons. Covered with a nice smooth layer of snow and ice these evil fiends have obviously expanded and multiplied over the winter. Safe reproduction is not a pothole's strong suit which explains why the sides are crumbling creating even wider gaps.

Did you lose a pet last week? Better check in the potholes around town, your pet is probably trapped and can't get up.

Last Tuesday, my car disappeared as it dipped into a rather ominous looking hole. Fortunately the car had enough momentum to climb out the other side, but for a second, when the whole world went dark, I thought my number was up.

I then took a few pictures of the pothole and sent them out to friends and relatives with a note saying I was in Colorado visiting the Grand Canyon and that I wished they were there.

Another sure sign of the warmer weather to come is those "Hey-I'm-so-cool-I-can-flick-cigarettes-out-the-window" types driving around the county. The other night, driving behind a red sports car along Highway 121, I counted three cigarettes tumbling out the window. Never mind the blackness of this guy's lungs; that's his problem. There's also a small environmental problem. Ever seen a bird choke on a butt, Billy? It sure ain't pretty.

By the way, before I get in trouble for assuming things, it was a guy ... or a very bald woman.

Why do smokers like to flick their butts out of moving cars? Ashtrays are standard equipment in every car so why not use it? One of my friends says he flicks his butts out so that he doesn't dirty his car. Hmmmm, not much point in having an ashtray then is there?

Another good excuse when I was younger was the old "This is my mom's car and she doesn't know I smoke." Good one, as if she couldn't smell the acrid smoke emanating from your ratty old jean jacket. Or notice the state of her chemise the time that pack of smokes you left in your jeans went through the wash.

Non-smokers have a hard enough time as it is figuring out what to do with their lonely ashtrays without having to dodge burning embers being flung at them from passing cars.

Is the ashtray a change holder, a place to store apple cores until they decay and you can't figure out where that tainted fruity smell is coming from, or a good place to put those mysterious small pieces that are somehow a part of your car, but are always showing up loose on the floor under the seats?

It's a tough one to call.

On the plus side, the streets of Haliburton will once again be crawling with wildlife late at night. Those little critters are so cute when they freeze right in their tracks at the sight of bright head lights.

At least they don't move, it makes it easier to miss them - unlike the zigzag motion of discarded cigarette butts.

Dishing out the new technology

Satellite dish owners, and others interested in learning more about the technology, were given a quick lesson on why signals are disappearing from their receivers. The occasion was a seminar held Wednesday February 24 at the Minden Legion hall and sponsored by local satellite equipment retailer Hope Satellite.

According to Brian Dinsdale in the past year, dish owners have been finding that fewer signals are being beamed down from satellites unscrambled. Dinsdale is the owner of Dinsdale Communications, a company involved in the distribution of satellite receiving equipment in Canada. He has been involved in the development of satellite technology for many years.

Previously, signals had been beamed down from satellites unscrambled, which meant that anyone with the appropriate equipment could capture the signal and view it on their television set.

In the past few years, originators of the signals have scrambled their signals to force dish owners to pay a fee to obtain the descrambling code.

While some dish owners paid the fee to the service originators, others relied on a process called "chipping" in which retailers would install the necessary computer chip to decode the signal. The maker of the chip and the installer were paid for their product or services, but there was no revenue passed on to the company where the signal originated.

The companies producing the television signal have been slow to produce tamper-proof signals because the signal was also being sent to numerous cable operators across the United States and Canada. These cable companies had invested in the older receiving technology, the same technology which was easy to descramble, and so were reluctant to make another investment in receiving equipment just to freeze out the individual receivers.

However time and economics have caught up with the industry and slowly the cable receiving stations have been changed to the new technology, known in the industry as VC II+. This new receiver contains a decoder that, according to Dinsdale, is impossible to chip. This means that dish owners will have to invest in the new decoder and be prepared to pay an annual levy based on the programming they wish to receive.

Canadian dish owners also face the possibility of legal action with the enactment of Bill C-40 legislation which makes chipping illegal.

Dinsdale estimated that the average household would pay about $500 per year to receive a cross-section of signals from satellites. Such a programming mix could include movie channels, sports and news channels, specialty information channels, among others. He said that anyone interested in purchasing all the television signals being offered from satellites could expect to pay $1800 a year.

The spokesman said he expected the conversion to the new VC II+ technology by cable companies to be completed by some time this year leaving only shopping channels, religious stations and government channels unscrambled. After that, any receiver not equipped with the new technology will have greatly reduced viewing options and during the next year will see its choices dwindle.

Lions roast departing president Norry

For Your Service

by Lion Maurice Boyd

The Lioness Mammoth bingo held on Friday, January 29 in conjunction with the Kinsmen Winter Carnival was a tremendous success. The funds raised will go towards Lioness Community Projects.

The Minden and District Lions Club voted unanimously to support their member Lion Greg Readman for Regional Chairman for the coming 1993/94 Lions Year. The election of this office will take place at The District A-16 Convention in Newmarket on April 25.

On February 24, Zone Chairperson Ev Saxton attended the Minden Lions dinner meeting. Lion Ev was very complimentary to the club for our activities and donations to our community as well as the District and International Projects.

Lion Doug King was presented with a Master Key Award by Lion Ev on behalf of Lions International. This award was in recognition of Lion Doug sponsoring 12 new members into Lionism over his life as a Lion. Congratulations Lion Doug.

Our February 24 meeting was the last meeting for President Paul Norry to be with our Club. Lion Paul and his family have moved to Geraldton, Ontario. President Paul presented awards to his Committee Chairman, Secretary and Treasurer for their assistance to him during the past year. Before this meeting adjourned, a roasting of Lion President Paul was ably chaired by Lion Al Stott. Each of the Lions taking part did an exceptionally good job. It was easy to see that Lion Paul was both entertained and touched by the remarks.

More winners in the Lions hockey pool are Ross Codlin, Ken Rowden, Alex Little, Mathew Moore, Dottie Muirhead, Peter Dollo, Bill Milford, Neil Burk, Robin Flood, Rob Tamblyn, Jim Bradbury, Larry Sawyer, Norm Graham, Lee Oster and Norma Greenfield. These winners shared $270.

Just a reminder, Lions need your old eye glasses. Please deposit them in one of the containers located at Dollo's IGA, McMahon's Feed store, Holiday-Rhodes Medical Centre or Apparitions on the main street.

Lions Easter Bunnies have arrived and are available from any Lion member or at McMahon's Feed store on Bobcaygeon Road at the corner of Deep Bay Road. These bunnies are solid pure chocolate with no additives.

Running dogs causing havoc for deer

The Ministry of Natural Resources would like to stress to dog owners the importance of maintaining control of their pets.

Snow and cold weather restrict deer movements and in general make winter a demanding time of year for the deer. They do not need the added stress of being chased by someone's household pet.

Domestic dogs, left to roam free often travel in groups and take this opportunity to participate in the thrill of a deer chase, which often results in the death of the deer through injury or exhaustion.

Deer are in their best physical condition before they enter winter as a result of unlimited food supplies. During the winter months, the food resource is reduced, resulting in a gradual decline in the animal's condition.

During the winter months, the deer are the most vulnerable to harassment. As well as receiving leg injuries from crusting snow conditions, a prolonged chase results in high energy consumption for deer already under the stress of winter. The females are extremely sensitive to unnecessary exertion and the added stress of pursuit can lead to aborted fawns.

During this critical period for deer, the Ministry of Natural Resources asks the cooperation of all dog owners in protecting the deer herds by not allowing their pets to roam unattended. Owners of dogs found chasing deer can face charges under the Game and Fish Act. Penalties for first offences have tripled from $55.00 to $155.00 Repeat offenders summoned to court can face fines of up to $25,000.00. In addition the Game and Fish Act allows a Conservation Officer to destroy any dog found running deer.

The public can also assist by reporting any dogs observed chasing deer by contacting the Ministry of Natural Resources office in Minden at (705) 286-1521.

Fawcett entertans on omnichord

Senior League

by Winnifred Barnum

It is to be hoped that old saying is not true - "If March comes in like a lamb, it goes out like a lion!"

Saturday afternoon Barbara Fawcett was here to play and sing for us. She plays an omnichord. Their music is so sweet and soothing. We certainly appreciate her coming to entertain us.

Anita Smith came Sunday to read for us. She is a good reader and we sincerely thank her, especially since she comes all the way from Haliburton. In the evening Rev. John Burgess conducted the chapel service with the help of Marion Fisher who played the organ. Thank you John and Marion.

Monday, we did the routine activities. The Hyland Crest Auxiliary held their monthly meeting in the Auditorium. Several projects were discussed for the betterment of Hyland Crest. There were no cards or movies Monday evening, but Pat Bradburn came to show the movies Tuesday night, and Stella Burch had reading in the afternoon. Thank you Pat and Stella sincerely. The movies were "Polar Bear" and "Mzema, Portrait of a Spring".

Wednesday, Pearl Cowen organized an afternoon for games, euchre etc. Jeanne Sears, Mary Wilson and Helen Skelding were volunteers to help those who needed aid.

Thursday, Terra and Norma took me with them to Peterborough for a little shopping and to visit May and Roy Cameron (May is my sister), so I missed the tea party given by the Minden Senior Ladies' Curling Club. Those who attended were Clara Warren, Molly McCarthy, Aileen Blears, Gladys Kellett Wruth, Roni Codlin, Annie Hurta and Wanda Carter. This was also our Birthday Tea. The birthday ladies for February were Ruby Lewis, Marjorie Shuyler, Eileen O'Brien and Edith Brittain. Edith was the only one able to attend. It was held in the dining-room and the residents thank all who took part.

Don and Ellen Holden hosted the Happy Hour while Bill Payne, Don White, Eldon Deacon and Doris did the entertaining. We appreciate the kindness and taking the time to come to anything they are asked to take part in. Thank you all very, very much.

The winners for Monday included Gladys Wruth with most lone hands and Dorothy McElwain and Elli Langpohl who also won the draw. The games are held every Monday at 1:30 p.m. and everyone is welcome.

We have been informed that people are leaving good used clothing at St. Paul's Anglican Church and as they DO NOT have rummage sales they ask that these clothes be taken to the 4C's in Haliburton where they can be put to good use.

* * *

Weekly winners at the Tuesday afternoon bridge games in Stanhope were Thelda Weston, Lyle Lucas and Earl Hayne.

These games are held each week and begin at 1 p.m.

We hear that Judy Stevenson has been moved to Queen Elizabeth Hospital at 550 University Avenue, Toronto M5G 2A2.

Had a pleasant visit last Saturday afternoon when my son Glen and his wife Louise came and stayed for supper.

Mary Cox District Director and I attended the Victoria East W.I. executive meeting at Baddow last Wednesday and plans were made for the coming year.

Sincere sympathy to the families and friends of the late Jean Stamp and Tom McKee who passed away recently.

Mr and Mrs Jeff Davis of Bracebridge visited Sunday with his grandparents, Mr and Mrs Earl Hewitt.

Wally and Reta Crofts are home after enjoying a holiday in sunny Florida.

The Bob Vicks and Dorothy McElwain and family attended the funeral of the Vick's brother in law Archie Thomson in Ottawa.

Congratulations to Lesley Ann Brydson of Bracebridge who celebrated her 21st birthday on March 7.

The pot-luck supper held at Club 35 on February 26 was well-attended and the winners of the euchre games are as follows: Cliff Woolner, most lone hands, Rhoda Woolner and Dave Lamb, high lady and man and May Bradbury, Murray Daniels and Verna Sawyer. The 50-50 went to Rhoda Woolner and special prizes to Jim Bradbury and Doreen Lewis. Door prize went to Ken Wallace.

We note that the March school break is close so everyone can have a holiday this year for there is a lot of snow, not mud that I seem to remember when my family was in school.

Most of you got a flyer regarding a consultant being in town making decisions about the Minden Hospital and health services. He requires those responses this week to please let him know what health and hospital services you feel are important. This is a one-time opportunity to determine the health and hospital needs for Minden and Area. County of Haliburton Community Futures Committee

How should we develop the future economy of the County of Haliburton?
What's important for future economic development in the County of Haliburton?

The County or Haliburton Community Futures Committee (CFC) is a community economic development programme which involves residents and organizations in working together to create and maintain local jobs through local economic development. The Community Futures Committee (made up of County residents working in partnership with other County residents and organizations) works with local communities to determine local economic development opportunities. Based on a County economic plan, CFC communities can access a number of programmes to support local economic development in the County (business loans, small business/entrepreneurship/self-employment, infrastructure programmes, training, others).

A recent meeting held at Bonnie View Inn involved more than 60 County residents in presentations on the local economy, and in working sessions to determine priorities for local economic development in the County of Haliburton in the next 3 to 5 years. Participants at that session made the following suggestions for local economic development in the County:

- balance development and environment, encourage development which is unique/fits for Haliburton County.
- create and maintain local jobs, develop stable year-round employment.
- plans must build to sustained local economic development and must balance local development and residents desires.
- we need to diversify the local economy (small business enterprise, tourism development, low impact/high technology industries, programmes which support seniors/retirement, others).
- develop partnerships for local economic development.
- build on strengths in tourism - promote more effectively.
- develop natural resources to value-add in Haliburton County.
- develop what we have - don't rely on grants/Government "handouts".
- build on opportunities with the College, develop cultural and recreation amenities/attractions.
- attract/create opportunities for new money and investment.

WE NEED YOUR IDEAS AND SUGGESTIONS ABOUT FUTURE ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT IN THE COUNTY OF HALIBURTON.

Two community planning sessions are planned for:

Tuesday March 9, 1993
7:00 to 9:00 p.m.
MINDEN Arena

Wednesday March 17, 1993

IN MEMORIAM

DAVIS: In loving memory of our Dad, grandfather and father-in-law, Frank, who passed away March 10, 1991.
Though your smile is gone forever,
And your hand we cannot touch,
Still we have so many memories
Of you Dad, whom we loved so much.
Your memory is our keepsake,
With which we'll never part,
God has you in His keeping
We love you in our hearts.
Sadly missed by son Willis, daughter Doreen, son-in-law John, grandson Johnny.

IN MEMORIAM

DAVIS: In loving memory of a loving husband, father, grandfather and great-grandfather, Frank, who left us March 10, 1991.
As time unfolds another year
Memories keep you ever near
Silent thoughts of times together
Hold memories that will last forever.
Sadly missed and always remembered by his wife, Mae.

DAVIS: In loving memory of a dear father, grandfather and great-grandfather Frank.
There will always be a heartache
Of the days when you were here
Remembering you is easy, we do it every day
But missing you is a heartache that never goes away.
No one knows the grief we share
When the family meets and you're not there,
We hold you close within our hearts
And there you will remain
To walk with us throughout our lives
Until we meet again.
A special smile, a special face,
A special person we cannot replace.
Lois, Glen and family.

WARBURTON: In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Joe, who passed away March 14, 1988.
Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days.
Sincere and kind in heart and mind
What a beautiful memory he left behind.
Always remembered by son Glen, Marg and family.
